

Our visit to India

(and a bit of Thailand)

In 2008 we went to India (via Bangkok, Thailand), took lots of pictures, and recorded our adventure on TravelPod. In 2017 TravelPod shut down. In 2019 I recreated these blog entries as best as I could. Here they are:

That's all, folks. I don't expect to do any more "travel" blogs, at least not long-distance ones, because since 2008 I've become much more aware of the carbon cost of long-distance travel. Our flights there and back had a carbon footprint of over 10 metric tons of CO2 (according to this calculator). In about 1/3 of the world's countries it takes the average couple more than 10 years to achieve the carbon footprint we made in just one round-trip to India. I was ignorant, and now I'm less ignorant. Now I'm ashamed. So, I'm staying close to home.

That was fun, eh?
